Council Denies Support to Domino On Carryout Pizza, Zoning Appeal

by Diane Oberg

At its October 1 regular meeting, the Greenbelt City Council voted to oppose Dominos Pizza's request to continue offering carryout service while seeking to change either its zoning category or the zoning law. Council also agreed to research Rick Meetre's proposal that the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) change its wetland mitigation plans, introduced legislation to establish a recycling advisory committee and gave final approval to several capital improvement appropriations ordinances.

Awards

The evening began on a pleasant note as Mayor Gil Weidenfeld presented Horticulturist Bill Phelan with county beautification and Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission water conservation awards for the landscaping at the police station and at the bus stop at the corner of Crescent and Ridge Roads. Phelan accepted the awards on behalf of the horticulturist and parks crews.

Sheldon Goldberg asked council for additional bus shelters in Greenbelt East. Assistant City Manager Michael P. McLaughlin reported that there is one shelter at Hanover Parkway and Mandan Road and that additional shelters are planned along Greenbelt Road at Hanover Parkway and Mandan Road.

Metro

Meetre asked council's support for his proposal that WMATA be required to obtain part of the Smith property, located south of the Greenbelt Metro station site, for replacement wetlands. Under federal law, WMATA must replace the wetlands it will damage in constructing the new station and train yard with twice the acreage of replacement wetlands.

WMATA plans to construct these new wetlands on a portion of the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center. Meetre argued that, based upon his conversations with a number of environmentalists, the Smith site would be a better site, as it would provide a filter for the runoff from the station site and improve water quality in Indian Creek. The station and yard will be constructed along Cherrywood Lane between Greenbelt Road and Kenilworth Avenue. Construction of the station is underway. WMATA is still awaiting permits from the Corps of Engineers for the yard.

Meetre said that his proposal would not delay the opening of the Green Line, would reduce the loss of open space and assure the preservation, in its natural state, of land adjacent to the station.

Council directed staff to forward the petition to WMATA and local elected officials for comment.

Domino Pizza

The zoning for the Domino Pizza property on Centerway permits only off-premises delivery and prohibits eat-in, drive-in and carryout service. Although the national company launched a major advertising drive over the summer to encourage customers to pick up their pizzas, the county has cited the local operation, along with others in the county, for a zoning violation as a result of this service.

The franchise holder, Chesapeake Pizza, Inc., is seeking extension of the 60-day grace period, to continue offering carryout service while it researches and applies for either a zoning change, to carryout restaurant, or a change in the zoning law to permit the currently prohibited activities.

Attorney Midgett Parker, representing Chesapeake Pizza, asked council's support, saying that carryout service would reduce traffic by eliminating the need for people shopping at the Center to return home and call for delivery. He argued that there is adequate parking in the municipal lot located behind the store.

Celia Wilson, the city's director of planning and development, said that contrary to the site description submitted by Chesapeake, there are only four legal parking spaces on the site, not 12. The spaces beside the building, which she said were never legal, are now inaccessible because of the installation of a new curb. The four spaces are not sufficient to support a pick-up operation, Wilson said.

Council member Antoinette M. Bram urged council to support Chesapeake's request for an extended grace period to resolve

Arts Center Offers "Roast Weidenfeld"

by Tom Renahan

Can Greenbelt laugh? In a city where civic life is pursued with grim determination and great seriousness, it may seem unlikely. The city's sense of humor will be put to the test on Sunday, Nov. 11, when the Greenbelt Arts Center roasts Mayor Gil Weidenfeld. The event is being held at the American Legion Post on the Veterans Day holiday weekend.

The program will consist of several roasters, an "outrageous" skit and equal time for Hizzoner's response. There will be a sit-down dinner at 7 p.m., preceded by a cash bar, with the program to begin around 7:45. Seating capacity is limited to 200, so early reservations are advised.

The Arts Center Roast Committee promises that many other Greenbelt notables will have the "honor" of being "mentioned" at this event. "No reputation is safe," the committee claims.

Albert Herling is Roast Chairman. Roasters include County Councilmember Richard Castaldi; Judge and former State Delegate Jerry Devlin; early Weidenfeld political ally Charlie Brown; PRAB Chair Tom Renahan; and a mystery guest, who shall remain nameless until the Roast. Former city councilmember Gerry Gough, who has directed many similar events, will direct the Weidenfeld Roast.

Weidenfeld was first elected to City Council in 1971 and first served as mayor from 1977 to 1979. He has been the mayor continuously since 1982, when Richard Castaldi vacated the post on his election to county council. Weidenfeld has worked as an attorney in the U.S. Patent Office since the family moved to Greenbelt in 1965.

Tickets may be purchased by mailing a check (and return address) to the Greenbelt Arts Center, P.O. Box 293, Greenbelt, Md. 20768. Tickets will be mailed out promptly, while they last.

New Recycling Center Will Open October 20

New Recycling Center . . . . . .

On Saturday, October 20 at 10 a.m. the Greenbelt City Council, city staff and the Recycling Committee will inaugurate an expanded recycling center at "Buddy" Attick Park. The new center will provide residents with the opportunity to recycle telephone books, corrugated cardboard, office paper, metal cans and plastic milk and soda containers, in addition to the glass, aluminum, newspapers, motor oil and car batteries currently collected.

Residents are encouraged to bring their recyclables to the opening festivities. For information about the center call Dave Helmecki at 474-8004.

Citizens Beg Consultants on Lake Park Plan to Keep It "Natural"

by Betsy Likowski

Keep the Lake Park natural was the comment heard again and again at the Lake Park Master Plan public hearing on Tuesday, October 2. It was a meeting designed to let citizens express their views on the park. This will be the first in a series of meetings to hammer out a master plan for the "Buddy" Attick Lake Park in a manner similar to the planning process for the Schrom Hills Park.

The "Buddy" Attick Lake Park is located south of Crescent Road, east of Kenilworth Avenue and west of St. Hugh's Church. The 85-acre park contains a 23-acre lake, woods, open fields, picnic areas, and other recreational facilities.

The firm of Greenhorne and O'Mara was hired by the city to prepare a master plan of the park. Planner Linda Ryan and landscape architect Cleve Stover said they have reviewed other plans on the park. At the meeting they asked citizens in attendance for their comments and ideas about the park.

Their next step is to produce two or three alternative plans which could range from minor changes to major enhancements. There would then be more public meetings to receive comments from citizens and thus hone the plans.

Stover displayed and explained two maps of the lake park and briefly discussed a number of areas that could be changed or improved. However, he stressed that he is seeking citizen input on these issues.

These issues covered a wide variety of points in the park. Should there be restrooms near the parking lot? Should there be more playgrounds or should the existing ones have different equipment? Should the park entrance be more formal or differently landscaped? Should the amphitheatre be moved? Should a different paving material be used on the trail? Should there be more landscaping? Could there be more parking spaces? Should the view of the office buildings be blocked? What should be done with the boat house: removed, relocated, made more rustic, kept the same? Do citizens consider silting or erosion problems?

Citizen Views

The citizens all expressed the wish that the park be kept natural and a number commented on problems affecting the naturalness of the park. George Loutsch of Maplewood Court maintained that the city should not develop a lot of recreation facilities so that people are, in effect, invited in to use the lake park from all over the area. We had that problem before restrictions were placed on parking (some years back), he said. Ken Brisco of Olivewood Court agreed, saying the park gets a lot of use. He maintained many park visitors were not Greenbelters and that they were bringing wine and beer into the park.

Several citizens expressed the need for more maintenance of the park. Rodney Roberts of Ridge Road stated that the park does not need a lot of new de-

Write-In Candidate

To the Editor:

A heartfelt thanks to those 504 voters who gave my platform their vote: pro constitution, pro choice, pro environment, and pro religious freedom.

I am sorry for all the voters who never heard of me—numbers and time make word of mouth communication really important in "a people campaign."

I have filed as a write-in for the State Senate in the election on November 6. Voters must ask when they go into the booth to do a write in. That information will not be volunteered by the people at the polls unless requested! I did not find a choice between the two names left on the ballot in the General Election so I will be trying to provide that to the voters. I continue taking no PAC money and accepting no endorsements.

I want people to stay in touch (262-3062). I'm still running to save the republic for which we stand. But, I cannot do it alone.

Register for Library Scrabble Tournament

The Second Unofficial Greenbelt Scrabble Tournament will begin at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 27, in the Meeting Room of Greenbelt Library, and the free games are open to all ages.

Sponsored by the Friends of the Greenbelt Library, the day of word-forming fun will run until about 3:30 p.m., with a break for lunch. Players should bring their own lunches, but FOGL will provide beverages.

Space is limited, so registration (by filling out a form at the library or by calling Barbara Simon at 474-2192) is encouraged. There will probably be room for last-minute enthusiasts who show up that day with their own Scrabble games, if they have them. However, first preference will be given to those who have pre-registered.

Anyone who has a complete Scrabble game and would be willing to loan it is also encouraged to bring it in or call Simon.

Competition will be in three age groups: 12 years or under, 13 to 16 years, and 17 years and older. Winners in each group may choose prizes among library or FOGL T-shirts, library logo mugs or a book bag. Webster's Third International Dictinory will be the word authority.

the violation. She said that many residents can walk to the store from the nearby apartments, which would not increase traffic. Further, she argued that the carryout operation might help the other Center stores, currently suffering sales drops due to the Centerway construction, and reduce the number of trips by Domino's delivery personnel.

Bram found herself on the short end of a 4-1 vote, however, as council voted to oppose the requested extension. Council member Joseph Isaacs was skeptical that people would walk several blocks to get a hot pizza that would be cold when they got home. As a result he felt that the carryout operation increases Center traffic. He said that Center merchants are already complaining about the shortage of parking.

Earlier in the meeting, City Manager James K. Giese noted that in response to merchant complaints about parking, the city had slightly widened the parking lot behind Domino's. This permitted conversion of the last row to perpendicular, rather than angled parking, increasing the number of spaces in the lot.

Along with Mayor pro tem Thomas X. White, Isaacs noted that in seeking its current zoning, Chesapeake had assured the city that they would not offer carryout. White called the carryout operation "somewhat of a reneg" of these assurances and doubted that it was in the best interests of the city to increase the pressure on parking. He also worried about what future tenants the revised zoning might permit.

Weidenfeld, while conceding that there are good arguments on both sides of the issue, opposed the extension because of the limited parking. He noted that while those desiring pizza can get delivery, the customers of the other stores had no option but to come to the Center. Council member Edward Putens, who had earlier pronounced himself "torn" on the issue, also voted to oppose the extension. He declared that he had been persuaded by the "overwhelming majority of obvious problems."

Legislation

Council introduced a resolution establishing a recycling advisory committee. The resolution will be considered for final passage at the next meeting.

Several capital improvements budgets were given final approval without change. These budgets govern: expenditures from the 1985 bond issue, including appropriations to fund construction of the indoor pool; improvements to Schrom Hills Park including appropriations to complete the project during the current fiscal year; renovations to create a community center, including appropriations for planning and design work; and expenditures of Community Development Block Grant funds.

The Capital Improvements Fund budget, accounting for the expenditures of tax generated funds, rather than bond or grant funds, was revised slightly. The revised ordinance will be considered for final passage at the next regular meeting.

Lewis Bernstein

Lewis Bernstein, a former member of the Greenbelt City Council, died of cancer on October 7 at his home in Bethesda. He was 74. While a Greenbelt resident, he was founding member and officer of Woodway Homes, now known as the Woodland Way development. As a member of a study committee appointed by the city council, he recommended the establishment of the Advisory Planning Board, on which he later served as chairman. He was elected to the city council in 1963, where he was a vocal opponent of high-density development.

Mr. Bernstein was born in Brooklyn, N.Y. and received a law degree from St. John's University. Before World War II he practiced law in New York and then served in the U.S. Army, participating in the invasion of Sicily. Later he served in France and Germany, being awarded a Bronze Star for organizing the criminal investigation division of the 7th Army. For a time after the war he practiced law in Fort Fairfield, Maine.

In 1953 Mr. Bernstein moved to the Washington area to join the Department of Justice, eventually becoming chief of the special litigation section of the antitrust division. In 1971 he received the Justice Department's John Marshall Award for enforcement of antitrust laws. In 1978 he retired, returning to private practice. He received the Consumer Lawyer of the Year award in 1989 from the D.C. Bar Association.

He is survived by his wife, Elaine, and by four children—Lois, Robert, John, and Cairole.

A memorial service was held on October 11 at the Kay Spiritual Life Center Chapel at the American University campus.

Expressions of sympathy may be made in the form of contributions to the American Cancer Society.

Police Offer Reward For Tips on Burglar

The Greenbelt Police Department is offering a $250 reward to anyone providing information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person(s) responsible for the burglaries in the old section of Greenbelt, Cpl. David Buerger told the News Review Tuesday. All information will be kept confidential, he said. Police have installed a special hot line for tips on 474-9199.

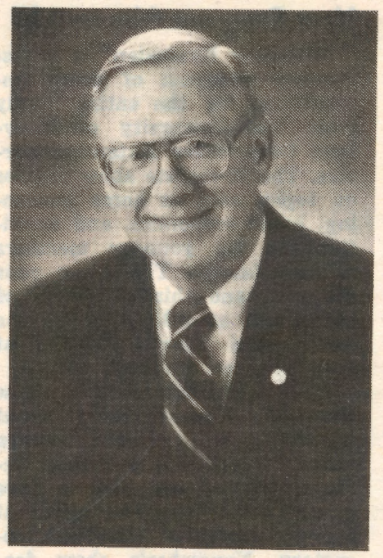

Five new breakins in the core of the city this week brings the total to 24 in the past three weeks. In each of the new incidents, the thief found a window or door unlocked or open. In four a purse or wallet or bookbag was taken or riffled for valuables. One house was ransacked, but nothing was taken. Only one home was found empty during the night time breakins, but no one heard or saw the burglar this week. The incidents were on Gardenway, Ridge, Research, Northway and Hillside.

Police again caution residents to lock doors and windows on the ground floor. In many of the cases, Buerger reported, a screen has been cut or removed in order to gain access to an open or unlocked window. Residents should not feel secure, he said, just because there is a screen.

Volunteers Needed

Volunteer positions are available throughout the Greater Laurel Beltsville Hospital, such as running clerical work and staffing the information desk. Volunteers are asked to serve one three-hour period per week, Monday through Sunday, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

An orientation for new volunteers will be held on Saturday, October 13 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. For further information, please call Carolyn Carchedi, director of volunteer services, at (301) 497-7950.

velopment; it needs more maintenance.

Loutsch said the city has an excellent horticulturist so why not do more landscaping in the park?

City Council members indicated they heard the citizens' wishes for a natural park. Council member Joseph Isaacs reported that the Boxwood citizens had indicated to him that they do not want much change in the park, that they like it as it is. "In our hearts we don't want to see a change, a master plan that would reconfigure it," he said.

Council member Antoinette Bram said "education of usage" is the only improvement to the park council has heard through the years.

Council member Edward Putens said he agreed with his colleagues. He added he believed improvement did not mean addition to the park and that he would like to see more maintenance. There is a pretty general idea of keeping the park natural and for local family use, said Mayor Gil Weidenfeld.

Misunderstandings

Throughout most of the meeting, citizens expressed a sense of wanting something different from what the consultants were doing. Several expressed concern with the procedures at the meeting.

"I was taken aback that the consultants would ask us questions," said Willard Larkin of Pinecrest. I thought they would present us plans, he said. The consultants need to have input from the public early on in the planning process, explained the city's Director of Planning and Development Celia Wilson. This is the same type of procedure that was followed in planning the Schrom Hills Park, added Weidenfeld.

Several people said what was needed was an overall plan for the park. Lola Skolnik called for a vision of what the park would be. We should envision how many benches and where they will go to guide us. In the past, she claimed, she has seen picnic tables appear in the park. "I've been on the city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board for seven years and we do not decide to put these in, so who does?" she asked.

Warner Neupert of Lakeside Drive said he agreed with Skolnik on the need for an overall plan as a guide.

"There's a general sense of what needs to be done," Weidenfeld said. "We are asking the consultants to fill in the gaps."

Council member Thomas White said the misunderstanding came from Wilson calling it an improvement plan. Wilson said she called it an improvement plan for fear the label "master plan" would call up the idea of a blank slate ready for development. She said what the consultants are working for is the same as what was expressed by the public at the meeting and what council directed the consultants to do. "A community sentiment has determined what this park is to be," she said. "A natural area with picnic areas."

Tom Renahan, chair of PRAB, brought up the point that these types of planning meetings will not be a representative sample of Greenbelt. The people who live closest to the park will come out more to these meetings, he said. To get a broader range of view he suggested running a city wide survey, instead of just the survey handed out by the consultants that night, or having the consultants identify new ideas and send them to PRAB.

Renahan said there would be trouble later if it was not accepted at the beginning that these meetings were not representative of Greenbelt. During the planning process of the Schrom Hills Park, the youth groups and neighbors of the park were predominant, he said. But the lake park is used by a wider group of people than Schrom Hills Park, he said.

White said he did not remember concerns about representativeness in the Schrom planning process. He said he thought more emphasis should be placed on the concerns of the neighbors.

TEAM UP FOR YOUR COMMUNITY THE COOPERATIVE WAY.

Cooperatives help communities grow in a unique way.

Cooperatives are owned and operated by the people they serve. That's you, your neighbor, people across town or the city, people in the next county or two.

Local control and local ownership make co-ops special. And the variety of goods and services provided by co-ops benefits the entire community.

Co-ops are organized for credit unions, electric and telephone service, farm marketing and farm supply, housing, florists, news services, insurance, health and day care, and anything else people need that can be provided both efficiently and economically.

All across America there are 45,000 cooperative organizations serving 90 million people. That's quite a team — people working together to build a better community.

Council Hears Bank Plans For Branch on Ivy Lane

by Mary Lou Williamson

Dominion Bank, of Roanoke, Va., is planning a small bank on Ivy Lane as part of the Capital Office Park. Earlier plans for a gas station at that location never materialized. The property was rezoned from C-Z to C-O, commercial office building, during the sectional map amendment earlier this year, a zone permitting a branch bank.

The teardrop-shaped site lies on .76 acre of flat land between Kenilworth Avenue and the first office building on Ivy Lane. The site is largely hidden from Kenilworth by a thick stand of trees in the highway's broad right-of-way.

Building Plans

A triangular-shaped building of white granite, designed to fit the site, will have two drive-through windows, an automated teller machine (ATM) and a 2,500 sq. ft. lobby. A curved retaining wall on the east side (toward Kenilworth Ave.) would also be white granite. The name of the bank would be carved into the stone on the east side of the building. Other signs have not yet been planned.

Two driveway entrances to the property were constructed along the service road, along the west side of the property, that currently leads to parking behind the neighboring office building. (The road will lead to the State Highway Administration building at some time in the future when its present access at Crescent Road is closed). Parking for 19 cars exceeds the code requirement of 10 spaces.

Initial Concerns

Nancy Slepicka, attorney representing the bank, brought a team to the September 17 council meeting to answer questions. The team included David Taylor, assistant vice president of Dominion Bank for property management, and Al Corby, architect and site planner from the firm The Designer of Annapolis and Washington. The call was a courtesy, Slepicka said, since no rezoning or plan approval is required. They plan to return in about a month, however, with sign plans that will need approval from the county for a departure from design standards.

Slepicka told council she did want to respond to some concerns brought up by the city's Advisory Planning Board (APB). In reviewing the flow of cars leaving the drive-through windows, APB found a potential conflict with cars pulling in to parking spaces near the ATM. Slepicka told council they agreed with the concern and have eliminated the two parking spaces closest to the drive-through windows, thereby offering drivers exiting the windows a few extra feet to put away their cash and pay attention to their driving.

Council member Antoinette M. Bram was adamant that a potential problem still exists. She called for redesign of the plan. Putens also objected to the "mingling of traffic." Slepicka explained that architects chose to place the ATM with parking spots close by on the side of the bank facing Ivy Lane for the customers' safety. "Dominion wants good visibility by police cars and others driving along Ivy Lane," she said. Signs will alert drivers to two-way traffic and striping on the pavement will direct drivers to the proper lane.

The branch will be in the middle of an area that is "going to be very, very busy with Metro and the connection to the Beltway. When you see a problem in advance," said Bram, "It's silly not to resolve it."

Landscaping

The landscape design utilizes deciduous rather than evergreen shrubs and trees to enhance the building rather than screen it, explained Corby. The city's horticulturist, at APB's suggestion, reviewed the plan and recommended no changes. Corby described the "fuller, lusher" green that deciduous trees, such as birches and red maples, offer. It will look "very, very good for eight or nine months of the year. There are no air conditioners lying on the ground that need evergreen screening," he said. "No gutters or downspouts, no meters on the building which is very streamlined and modern."

Bram argued for some use of evergreens, specifically Leyland Cypress, a narrow, pyramidal tree that grows 50 to 70 feet tall. It is used extensively in Europe, she said. Corby agreed to look at her suggestion.

Shannon Grady Named "Miss Greenbelt 1990"

by Sandy Smith

Shannon Grady, a junior at Eleanor Roosevelt High School, is Miss Greenbelt for 1990. Shannon is a life-long resident of Greenbelt with her parents, Tim and Karen Grady of Laurel Hill Road.

For the talent portion of the pageant, Shannon tap-danced to "Shake, Rattle and Roll," "Dueling Banjoes," and "Yankee Doodle." She was the winner of the talent competition in the 1989 pageant. She described the pageant as a "fun experience," and commented that she had enjoyed the entire experience. Shannon is a member of the ERHS cheerleader squad. The cheerleaders have a demanding rehearsal schedule which has resulted in their selection for the National Competition in Texas. Shannon plans a career in elementary education.

Elementary education is also the career goal of Tina Attick, the 1990 Miss Greenbelt Pageant's First Runner-up. Tina is a student at Prince Georges Community College. She won the talent competition this year, playing "Minuet," by Bach on the violin. She has a number of hobbies including writing. She had a good time participating in the Miss Greenbelt Pageant which she definitely would recommend to others. Tina is the daughter of Brenda and Charles Attick of Fayette Place in Lakewood.

Second Runner-up in the Miss Greenbelt Pageant is Crystal Hawkins, a Freshman at Frostburg State University. She is majoring in art and used her artistic ability in the pageant's talent competition by displaying painting, sculpture and clothes she had created. This was her first year to compete in the pageant and she enjoyed it and made a lot of new friends. She is 19 years old and attended Elizabeth Seton High School.

Leslie Corbin, the Pageant's Miss Photogenic, was selected as Third Runner-up. Leslie is a 14-year-old, 9th grade student, at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. She described the pageant as offering an "all-around look at Greenbelt" and an opportunity to meet new people. She is a relatively new resident of Greenbelt and lives in the Greenbrook area of the city. Leslie plans a career in the medical field, probably as a pediatrician.

Other participants in the pageant were Lori Byrd, Apryl Kaye, Tara Kowmas and Susie Nelson, who was selected as Miss Congeniality. The 1990 Miss Greenbelt Pageant was chaired by Cheri Gainor and Natasha Chavrid Jewell.

The pageant demonstrated its country and western theme in the float, dance numbers performed by the contestants, and in the pageant's decorations and special events. For fund-raisers, the girls held two successful car washes, and this year's pageant featured the first cookout for sponsors, contestants and their families. The organizers are already laying plans for next year's festival.

POLICE BLOTTER

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

Opl. Thomas Kemp and Pfc. Michael Lanier seized over 100 suspected marijuana plants, with a potential value of $100,000, from a Springhill Lake apartment in the 6200 block of Springhill Ct. The plants were being cultivated with an elaborate cultivation system including plumbing, an electric water pump set on a timer, an exhaust vent through the ceiling, and a rotary light on the ceiling. As the officers were in the process of sealing the apartment to obtain a warrant, two people returned to the apartment and were arrested and are being held on $20,000 bond. The plants were discovered when water leaked into the apartment below.

A robbery occurred in the rear parking lot of TGI Fridays Restaurant on October 3, at about 8:30 p.m. A man approached a woman and demanded money. When the victim said she did not have any money he grabbed her keys and clothing from her hands. He fled the parking lot in a newer model Brown Jeep CJ-7 with a black cloth top bearing a white and black license plate with the letters SG or C then 10 followed by several unknown numbers. Anyone having information may contact Det. Carolyn McLean, 507-6530.

Around six p.m. on October 2, two men in a car approached two juveniles in the 9300 block of Edmonston Rd. and offered them drugs. The men claimed to be police officers and displayed a badge. Then they took off. The only description given of the men is that they are white. The car is a gray Ford Mustang, with New Jersey tags GGI 24L.

On Sept. 30, Officer John Rogers arrested a 37-year-old nonresident male at Denny's after the man had become disorderly and had refused to leave the restaurant. The man was released on a citation pending trial.

After responding to a report of domestic violence in the 100 block of Westway Rd. on Sept. 29, Pfc. Marie Croissette was pushed by a 37-year-old nonresident female whom Pfc. Croissette subsequently arrested for battering a police officer. The woman appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was held on $1,000 bond pending trial.

Breakings and enterings were perpetrated by entering open windows or breaking windows at several locations. In the 6200 block of Breezewood Ct. a bicycle was stolen on Sept. 26. In the 5800 block of Cherrywood Terr. a camera was stolen on Sept. 27. Nothing was taken from a residence in the 6000 block of Cherrywood Ct., but entry had been forced by breaking a window.

A variation on this theme occurred on Sept. 30 in the 6000 block of Springhill Dr.: Entry was gained via a hallway attic access door and the ceiling of a unit was broken through; no property was taken.

Another burglary occurred in the 7700 block of Greenbrook Dr. on October 3 after a resident received a furniture delivery and then noticed that his house keys were missing.

Around 10:40 a.m. on October 2, three men knocked on the door of a residence in the 9300 block of Edmonston Rd., and when no one answered, they broke a window and one of them entered the apartment. The residents were inside the apartment, however, and the three men fled once they realized this. Officer Barry Byers apprehended the one who had entered the apartment. This man, a 19-year-old nonresident male, was arrested and charged with burglary; he appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was held on $20,000 bond pending trial. The other two men got away. They are described thus: (1) black, 6'1", 170 lbs., wearing a blue jacket; (2) black, in his 40s, heavyset, wearing a brown maintenance type shirt.

Two thefts occurred in office suites: An unattended briefcase was stolen from the 7800 block of Walker Dr. on Sept. 28, and on the same day, a purse was taken from the 7900 block of Cherrywood Lane.

WANTED

GREENBELT CITY POLICE

The above man is wanted by the Greenbelt Police in connection with the rape and two armed robberies which occurred in the 7200 block of Mandan Road on October 7 about 2:15 a.m.

The man was armed with a handgun, possibly a revolver. He placed the gun against the head of his victim and demanded money and jewelry. He then forcibly raped the woman, according to police reports. He stopped assaulting the woman when a second woman drove up, stopped and got out of her car. He then approached and robbed her at gun point. The man fled the area in a vehicle, possibly a blue Chevrolet.

He is described as a dark-skinned black man, mid to late 20s, 5 ft. 9 in., 135 lbs., dark clothing and close-cropped hair, giving a bald appearance.

Any person having information should call Det. Carolyn McLean, 507-6530.

"When buyers think Greenbelt, they think REALTY 1."

Hearing on $5.5 Million GHI Budget Next Tuesday

by Mary Moien

The proposed 1991 budget was the major topic of discussion at the September 27 meeting of the Board of Directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI). The total charges to members for 1991 will be $5.5 million, an increase of 6.3% over the 1990 figure of $5.2 million. This represents $3.8 million in operating charges and $1.7 million in debt service for the rehabilitation. While the debt service figure is the same for 1990 and 1991, the operating charges showed an increase of 9.4%.

The membership hearing on the proposed budget will be held Tuesday, October 16, 8 p.m. in the GHI Board Room. Members will have an opportunity to ask questions and offer suggestions on the budget.

Budget Goals

Ron Colton, General Manager, presented a detailed discussion of the proposed 1991 budget. This budget was based on the assumption that the primary goal of the cooperative is to make the homes last another 50 years. The budget reflects the continuation of scheduled capital improvement projects designed to repair house infrastructure; repair and replace old components; and to implement preventive maintenance to extend the life of the houses while reducing maintenance needs where possible.

Fee Variations

As documented in the proposed budget, charge increases will vary widely by type of home. The masonry homes will expect the largest increases, approximately 9%; the frame homes, 5%; and the larger homes, 2%. The increases in charges are directly related to the capital improvements and repairs scheduled for the various types of units.

The moderate increases for the frame homes consist mainly of taxes, maintenance, improvements and insurance. The program to install sewer cleanouts in all frame buildings will be completed in 1991, while the program to replace porch decks and porch roofs will continue in 1991 and beyond.

The increase in charges for the larger homes mainly reflects increases in taxes.

The most serious budgetary impact is on the masonry homes. In addition to tax increases, the budgets for maintenance and improvements have increased significantly. For the last three years, the masonry home maintenance expenses have exceeded the amount budgeted. Also included in the budget are completion of work on ridge vents, soffit and facia for brick homes and testing a solution for the problem of settlement cracks in the block homes.

Director Margaret Hogensen asked whether the management had investigated stretching out the completion dates for some projects to minimize the increases in member charges. Colton indicated that this budget did not change any schedules. He cautioned that other projects are scheduled for future years. Hogensen, however, requested that he review this area and report back to the board.

The board quickly dealt with other topics, including a request from St. Hugh's Church to be allowed to extend for another year the sublease of the two Crescent Road units previously occupied by the Convent. This request was approved.

Green Belters News

by Jerry Conway

The Greenbelt Senior Softball Team, 60 +, won a softball tournament in Howard County by winning seven of nine games against Dundalk, Catonsville, Parkville, Howard County and Columbia on September 17, 18, and 19. Jerry Conway scored the only homerun for the team, but others scored on good hitting and all were outstanding in fielding skills.

In the Baltimore County League the Greenbelt Seniors won second place and the "best personalities" trophy.

The team earned a playoff in the Maryland Senior Olympics in the 55 + age group by winning four of five games. At Towson University on October 5, they lost two games, and therefore did not go on to the nationals. An injury, a brisk wind and bright sun aided other teams' home run efforts against them.

Four of the Greenbelt Players will be selected for the All Star team which will play in the National Senior Olympics.

Men and women of Greenbelt who wish to practice softball for exercise, sportsmanship and developing skills while socializing are invited to meet for softball play on Braden Field on Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to noon, beginning October 17.

Dr. Frank Pisciotta, Gastroenterologist

Listening To Your Body's Language

If you think the way computers work is complicated, think for a minute about your own body. Everything we do—from taking a step to reading a page to processing food—requires enormous coordination of systems within. When something is going wrong, the body often sends out signals to warn us.

These signals are commonly known as symptoms, and are the body's way of telling us that something needs attention.

Dr. Frank Pisciotta, an area gastroenterologist, states, "Two common signs of a digestive system in trouble are diarrhea and constipation. Others include painful swallowing, heartburn, nausea, cramping, unexplained weight loss, discoloration of tissue or the presence of blood in the stool."

Dr. Pisciotta says that for some 20 million Americans, minor digestive upsets are a daily problem. According to the National Institutes of Health figures, another 20 million are chronically ill with serious gastrointestinal disorders.

He states, "Almost everyone suffers from occasional bouts of heartburn. Changing eating habits may help dramatically, however, if within a week's time self-care measures don't help, it's time to seek medical advice. The acids caused by heartburn can actually erode the esophagus and cause painful ulcers. Your doctor can likely prescribe something to prevent it."

Common sense, he says, is the key. Many people wait too long for the symptoms to disappear on their own. By the time they seek medical advice, the problem has advanced to a more complicated stage.

Most digestive diseases are highly treatable in their early stages, includes malignancies. Early tumors can usually be effectively removed with little or no discomfort by a simple in-office procedure called endoscopy. Dr. Pisciotta has offices that include endoscopy facilities, as well as on-site lab, and X-ray, so there is no undue disruption of the patient's daily routine. Should there be a need, he has hospital privileges at many of the areas finest facilities.

He says, "We often see patients who have suffered for weeks or months before they come in, thinking that the problem would go away. Our staff understands the importance of early treatment, so when someone calls, we accommodate them right away. A thorough evaluation and program of treatment, if needed, begins immediately."

Dr. Pisciotta, who is a graduate of the Universities of Maryland and Texas Medical School, trained at institutes including Hahnemann Medical Center and Hospital in Philadelphia; M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston; St Mary's Hospital at the University of Rochester in New York and Washington Hospital Center in Washington, D.C. He prescribes preventive measures as ways in which to avoid having trouble.

"Eat slowly," he advises, "and as your mother always told you, chew your food well. Have plenty of high-fiber food in your diet, drink alcohol only in moderation, don't smoke cigarettes, and be aware of any changes in your body's normal patterns. If you have doubts concerning the seriousness of a condition, see a doctor. Ignoring symptoms for long periods of time can wind up being very costly in terms of your health. When your body talks, listen."
